

Comment from JRP Solutions' Managing Director Jes Rutter

It's been a challenging year for energy and compliance managers! The obligation to comply with ESOS has required more effort and resource than many anticipated. The good news is, we're nearly there! Now is the time to focus on how all those opportunities identified are going to be delivered!

Below you'll find some interesting and useful information on this topic and also news on how ESOS may play a greater part in the business energy tax landscape going forward.

If you'd like to get our expert view on any particular issues you have, please do get in touch, we'd love to help.

OPINION

AUTUMN STATEMENT 2015

What did the Autumn Statement do to secure energy supply and reduce energy use?

It was gratifying to see that energy figured more prominently than ever before in the Chancellor's Autumn Statement yesterday, although not everything could be seen as a positive step forward for the environment. Follow this link for Jes Rutter's review of the Autumn Statement. More >>

OFFER

Would you like a free audit of your energy training needs?

Your employees can be your most powerful asset in achieving and sustaining energy and cost savings. They know your business processes and operations better than an outside consultant, and can be best placed to identify and implement energy saving opportunities. If you would like a free audit of your energy training needs, give us a call. More >>

OPINION

The consultation on changes to the business energy tax landscape has closed. What will this mean for you?

How will tax on business energy use be collected in the future?
If CRC is scrapped, what will replace it?
What role will ESOS play?

More >>

HOW TO

How can you simplify the management of your improvement projects?

Which projects should be implemented first? How can the relevant stakeholders be engaged? Which projects will deliver the greatest benefits to the business? How can you keep track of progress at each stage of project development? These and other challenges could be easier to manage than you think?

More >>

OPINION

Arctic ice, 1980 and 2012

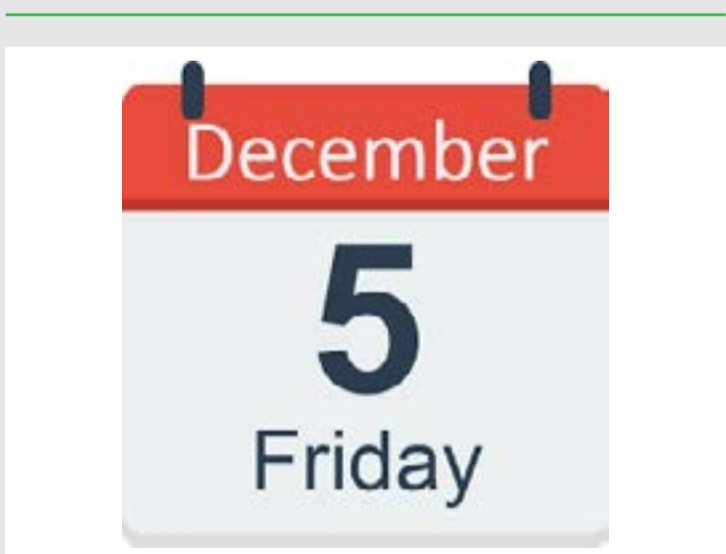

Energy Managers – keep up the good work!

Fighting for stakeholder engagement, battling the red tape to achieve legislative compliance, and competing for capital investment and personnel resources.

This is why you do it – the reality of climate change.

More >>

ESOS DEADLINE

The ESOS deadline has not been extended - you must still act by 5 December

As of the 20th November, only 1183 organisations (of an estimated 10,000) had completed their notifications of compliance. The EA has made it clear that there is not an extension to the deadline to register ESOS compliance and that companies that cannot comply are required to inform them of this by the 5th December.

More >>

EXHIBIT

Are you going to the Sustainable Food and Beverage Exhibitions?

Come and see us on stand no 4.

FOOD & DRINK BUSINESS EUROPE
Sustainable
Food & Beverage Manufacturing Conference & Exhibition

Connecting Key Stakeholders Responsible for Creating a Sustainable Food & Beverage Manufacturing, Retail & Food Service Industry

MOTORCYCLE MUSEUM Birmingham Dec 2nd 2015